Many of the leading business men of this city met in the County Court room Monday afternoon and organized what is to be known as "The Merchants' Protective Association of Montgomery County." Mr. King Welsh Dead.

After an illness of several months' duration Mr. King Welsh, a prominent young newspaper man of Lexington, Ky., died Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Welsh was one of four sons and two daughters of Mrs. Sallie King Welsh of 493 West Third street, and of the late Mr. B. J. Welsh, formerly City Auditor of Lexington. Mr. Welsh, who was a nephew of Mr. J. P. King, of this city, had often visited here and was known by many of our citizens and his death will be heard with much regret.

We clip the following from the Lexington Herald, a newspaper with which Mr. Welsh was connected for many years:

"As the sunset of a February afternoon marked anon the sunset of the young life of our brother of the craft, it left its afterglow that meed of sorrow that never fails to come with the passing of a life so useful and so full of promise; but the end offers the hope that comes of the abiding faith, whispering about the night of death 'the morn will be brighter still.' To her who bore him and those who lose King Welsh 'only for a little while,' we crave the poor boon of saying, 'your grief is ours and the blow smites us as well.' God be with you and your brave boy, till somewhere the broken chain shall be reunited beyond the sunlit sea."

Government Telegraph Lines.

In a spasm of dismay the president of a great telegraph company has given out the startling information that if the government sees fit to conduct the telegraph business of the United States that the telephone business will of necessity become an integral part of such a system.

All right; everyone seems satisfied.

If the government can handle all the wire business and save a good many million dollars to the citizens of the nation, why not establish a government telegraph and telephone system?

The postmaster general has stirred up a hornet's nest among the financial interests of the country. Men who are interested in collecting juicy annual dividends and still more juicy stock dividends are in a state of horror for fear the government will establish wire lines, conduct them economically and save the people a lot of money.

Nearly all of the big telegraph and telephone lines started in a small way and have grown to be of enormous size without the addition of much real capital. The profits have been abnormal and the people have paid the bills.

Our postoffice department conducts quite the largest business of them all. The same department can easily handle the telegraph and telephone business and bring it as near perfection as can be done by private management. The postoffice business is now on a paying basis and we have a prospect of lower postage rates.

The people of the United States seem to be in favor of the government taking over the telegraph and telephone business. Newspapers with trust tendencies and which are affiliated with capital that prospers on the toll from the wire service are hostile to any arrangement which will take this fine-paying industry away from a few corporations and put it where it belongs. The people pay for the maintenance of the lines and furnish the funds which make tremendous dividends. So, why not let the people get the benefit from lower rates which would be possible under government ownership?

If the companies owning wires and poles and such things, which don't represent any great amount of money, as we reckon investments in these times, wish to keep their lines they are welcome to do so. The United States government can build its own lines. But if the corporations will sell their property at its real value the government can consistently purchase the tangible assets and continue the business of sending messages or permitting conversation on the wires at reasonable rates. The companies can keep the water that

STOMACH TROUBLES

Cured By Vinol—Here is Proof
Seymour, Ind.—"I was troubled with a chronic stomach trouble, and five weeks ago it got so bad I had to give up work. I had tried various medicines without relief, and was finally induced to try Vinol. After taking the first bottle I was greatly benefited. Am now on the third bottle and ready to resume work. Am rapidly gaining in weight and strength." Edw. Nieman.

It is the curative medicinal elements of the code livers, combined with the strengthening properties of tonic iron contained in Vinol which makes it so successful in restoring perfect digestion and at the same time it builds up the tired, overworked and run-down system.

Try a bottle of Vinol with the understanding that your money will be returned if it does not help you.

W. S. LLOYD, DRUGGIST, Mt. Sterling

has been injected into the stocks.

The time is ripe for government ownership, the people will appreciate a reduction in rates which can come in this way and in no other, and the year 1912 should pass into history as the year when the United States government engaged in the economic practice of saving the people some dozen of millions of dollars for the use of wires to transact business.

No Need to Sacrifice Sheep.

Live muttons are again coming into the good graces of their owners. The new year was but ten days old when yearling weathers sold on the Chicago market at a higher price than was paid for yearlings at any period of 1911. A good fat lamb was worth $2 per cwt. then more than at the low spot only six weeks previous and a fat ewe about $1.75 per cwt. more. The East is starting a clamorous demand for dressed mutton.

As eastern live markets are bare, it is up to the West to supply the demand, but feeders should bear in mind the fact that it will not take the simultaneous emptying of their feedlots to fill the bill. It would indeed seem unwise for holders of bovine stock on feed to dump a lot of immature stuff on the market just at the time when values are showing a tendency to rise to the dignity of properly remunerating the feeder for his labor and the cost of the gains made.

Days.

We do not only have a "Mother's day," but someone has started a "Father's day." Soon we may expect to be called upon to observe Brother's day and Sister's day and Cousin's day and Grandparent's day and Uncle's day and Aunt's day.

What, with New Year's day and Washington's birthday and St. Patrick's day and other holidays, we are getting pretty well cluttered up with days to observe things on.

Lots of people, however, like these special days, when they can wear a pink or a rose or a daisy or morning glory, and go around with a conspicuous expression of well-doing.

Then there is Tag day. None of us know when he starts to the office but what he will be approached by a beautiful young thing or a kittenish old maid and asked to pin a tag on himself and hand over some money for something or other.

Eventually someone will institute Watermelon day and Baked Bean day and Cauliflower day, and maybe some fool legislator will get passed a law providing a fine for those who do not eat the particular kind of food for which the day is named.

But there will always be people who will live their lives one day at a time, taking each day as it comes and bidding it good-bye as it goes, loving their fathers and mothers and sisters and brothers and national heroes the same one day as another, and generally existing in a same, safe, commonplace manner.—Chicago Post.

Mr. Watterson's Precepts.

"Never seek office, never take giftstock, never touch campaign money; these are the precepts the young journalist should hang upon his bedpost," said Henry Watterson, at the twenty-fifth anniversary banquet of the Boston Press Club.

"The newspaper is not a commodity to be sold over the counter like drygoods and groceries," said Mr. Watterson. "It should be, as it were, a keeper of the public conscience: its rating professional like the ministry and the law, not commercial, like the department store and the bucketshop."

"Its workers should be gentlemen, not eavesdroppers and scavengers, developing a spy system peculiarly their own, nor caring for the respect and esteem of the vicinage."

The Spring Bull Sales.

The cattle on our best-managed American farms have been brought to their present state of improvement by pure-bred bulls. Continued and general advance toward a high average of excellence among cattle can only be obtained by the same means. It is necessary to bring the merits of improved cattle forcibly to the attention of those who lack the initiative to make a vigorous search for the good sires. Some convenient means of distributing bulls is desirable.

Spring sales where many breeders combine their surplus into a vendue numbering hundreds of bulls have been established in Great Britain with much success. Such events are set apart as a time for the selection of a bull from a great number, exactly to suit any man's requirements. The American Aberdeen-Angus Breeders' Association now proposes to establish spring bull sales in this country to secure a general and wide distribution of bulls, and to furnish the small breeder a satisfactory market such as is enjoyed by his neighbor breeding larger numbers and having more experience in salesmanship.

Two bull sales will be held this spring—one east of the Mississippi River and the other west of it. Classes have been arranged for senior and junior bulls, with prizes extending to six places. The judging is expected to contribute much to the popular appreciation of the best bulls, and it will add to the general interest of both breeders and public in the events.

Breeders of limited operations should receive much encouragement from this new plan, for their stock will be sold under the auspices of the breed's official organization, and their work will gain a prestige and support that could not be secured through independent operations. Likewise the farmer in search of a steersetter will share equally with the great breeder in the assurance of satisfactory treatment in any purchase he may make at the auction. Angus breeders are hopeful that the plan may meet the demand for a more expeditious and general distribution of pure-bred bulls.

Agricultural Extension.

Every one has come to realize the importance of a better system of Agriculture in Kentucky. We all know that the soils of the state are now in a worse condition than they were a generation ago. Likewise the increase in population has necessarily made the size of the farms smaller. Under these conditions a definite problem presents itself quite clearly, namely, that we must be content to live on less than our fathers did or else that we must study to make our land produce more. The latter is clearly the only course to pursue; the question is, how to go about it.

During the last two or three years the College of Agriculture at Lexington has conducted a small number of agricultural clubs with the most gratifying results. Heretofore the work has necessarily been limited on account of lack of men and money and, for that matter, the same conditions still exist, however, an account of the excellent results obtained a greater effort will be made this season to forward this work.

An agricultural club usually does the best work when in connection with some school or is under the supervision of the county school superintendent, though this is not necessarily the case.

Heretofore the clubs have often been called Corn Clubs and have confined their efforts to corn raising. During the coming season the plan is to expand the work to cover a variety of farm activities such as corn, in yield and profit contests; potato raising in similar tests, testing and keeping records of dairy cows, buttermaking, bread-making, sewing, gardening and forestry. In an article of this length it is impossible to go into any details, however we want to say that all these activities are to lead to the young people's department of the state show at the Agricultural College next January. Assistance will be given from time to time; experts from the college will visit the clubs and a limited amount of apparatus will be loaned for the use of the members. Detailed instructions will be given in regard to all lines of work undertaken.

There are numerous benefits that will be gotten by boys and girls as well as by teachers who get in touch with the Extension Service of the University. The prize lists offered at the annual Farm Products Exhibition contain valuable premiums and as the work develops, other attractive features will be added, such for instance as free trips to the State Fair, available to boys and girls in each of the counties.

The Agricultural College invites correspondence in regard to this work.

Winter is a home-making season. It fosters the family spirit. It brings old and young together at the fireside in mutually helpful relationships. In earlier days, when our farm home life was simpler, winter was a season of daily family reunions that disciplined and fashioned character.

Parents.

Youth has its advantages, but so has age, although these latter are not so easily understood. Color and passion should fade not into dullness, but into pictures as lovely as those of twilight or the star-set night. Age should be the time when with an eye made quiet by the power Of harmony, and the deep power of joy, We see into the life of things.

In the greatest, perhaps, of all English meditative poems are celebrated these gains: the mind to hear the still, sad music of humanity, with its power to chasten and subdue; the presence that disturbs us with the joy of elevated thoughts; the sense sublime

Of something far more deeply interfused, Whose dwelling is the light of setting suns

Parents, if they are fortunate in their children and in themselves, combine the advantages of maturity storm, the interests of all the human stages. They live in toys, in romance, in ambition, but with selfishness purged away, with hopes purified, with hearts that seek for the young only such experiences as shall lend value and beauty to them always.

Sausley Exonerated.

Ensign R. C. Sausley, U. S. N., of Kentucky, has practically been exonerated of the serious charges under which he was recently court-martialed at the Norfolk navy yard. Secretary of the Navy Meyer over-ruled the court-martial findings which recommended a loss of three numbers and a reprimand. The loss of numbers will not be imposed and only the reprimand, for the sake of discipline, will be given.

Every effort was made at the Navy Department to make the punishment, such as it is, appear light and favorable to the young officer. The charges under which Ensign Sausley was tried were based on negligence in reporting promptly needed repairs to his command, the torpedo boat Biddle, and his subsequent protest against taking the vessel to sea when ordered to stand by the collier Sterling on December 6, when the latter was ashore off the Virginia capes.

WANT TELEPHONE AND TELEGRAPH WIRE LAW

Winchester Business Men Ask Legislature to Carry Out Constitution's Order.

ADOPT RESOLUTIONS

Commercial Club Acts Upon Plan to Obtain Prompt Transfer of Messages.

The Commercial Club of Winchester, at a recent meeting, adopted resolutions requesting the Legislature to put into effect through the medium of a Public Utilities bill, that section of the State Constitution providing for the prompt transmission of messages received by one telephone or telegraph company to points on the lines of other companies. The resolutions in full follow:

"Whereas, the present agitation in Public Utilities legislation has brought to the attention of the public generally the provisions of section 199 of the constitution, which reads as follows:

"TELEGRAPH AND TELEPHONE COMPANIES. Any association or corporation, or the lessees or managers thereof, organized for the purpose, or any individual, shall have the right to construct and maintain lines of telegraph within this State, and to connect the same with other lines, and said companies shall receive and transmit each other's messages without unreasonable delay or discrimination, and all such companies are hereby declared to be common carriers and subject to legislative control. Telephone companies operating exchanges in different towns or cities, or other public stations, shall receive and transmit each other's messages without unreasonable delay or discrimination. The General Assembly shall, by general laws of uniform operation, provide reasonable regulation to give full effect to this section. Nothing herein shall be construed to interfere with the rights of cities or towns to arrange and control their streets and alleys, and to designate the places at which, and the matter in which, the wires of such companies shall be erected or laid within the limits of such city or town."

"And Whereas, since the adoption of the present constitution in the year 1891, the Legislature of Kentucky has failed to pass any laws putting this provision of the constitution into effect;

"And Whereas, the citizens of this town and county, generally, and particularly those concerned with the Commercial Club, realize the great advantages and the great saving that there would be to the citizens of this city and county and of this State generally by having this provision of the constitution carried into effect.

"Now, therefore, be it resolved by the Commercial Club of Winchester, Clark county, Kentucky, that the members of this club do in this public way call the attention of the General Assembly now sitting at Frankfort to the provisions of this section of the constitution, and do earnestly request that legislation be passed, that will give the citizens of this town and the State generally the benefit of such legislation that has been so long withheld.

"And be it further resolved, that this resolution be spread upon the minutes of this club, and a copy furnished to the local papers for publication, and that copies be sent to the Commercial Club in the various cities throughout the State, and that a copy be sent to the Senator and Representative of this district."

THE FACTS ABOUT THE CONTRACT

TO RE-PRINT THE CITY ORDINANCE BOOK.

The written specifications furnished us by Mr. W. C. Hamilton, City Attorney, and upon which we presented a bid to the Committee appointed by the City Council to have re-printed the City Ordinance Book were as follows:

SPECIFICATIONS.

Copies 200, same size type, same size page, same size book. Binding to be submitted. Material to be submitted.
Contractor to furnish competent man to compare transcript and compare index, etc. Index must show section number and page of each ordinance.
The bids received by the Committee were as follows:

MR. CLAY MILLER'S BID.

Jan. 23, 1912.

City Printing Committee,
Gentlemen:

We will make you two hundred copies of by-laws and ordinances according to the plans and specifications submitted to us today to make our estimate from and will bind one dozen in heavy binding for use in City Court room and by City officers.

You can select most any stock in sample book that will suit you. We would suggest Cornish book, Waldorf book or Raphael text. Our price would be ninety-eight cents per page.

Very truly,
CLAY MILLER.

THE SENTINEL-DEMOCRAT'S BID.

To the Honorable Mayor and Board of Council,
City of Mt. Sterling.

Gentlemen:

We agree to publish the by-laws and ordinances of the City of Mt. Sterling in book form and conform to the specifications governing same, pages to be six inches in width and nine inches in length (same as old book) for the sum of seventy-two (72) cents per page.

We further agree to publish same in a more convenient pocket form, namely pages four inches in width and six inches in length (4x6) for the sum of fifty-eight (58) cents per page.

Respt.,
THE SENTINEL DEMOCRAT,
By H. B. Turner.

THE ADVOCATE'S BID.

City Printing Committee,
Gentlemen:

Agreeable to your request, we have the pleasure of submitting you price for the following printing and assure you that should you favor us with your commands our close personal attention shall be given thereto and every effort put forth to give you entire satisfaction.

Yours very truly,
ADVOCATE PUBLISHING COMPANY,
By G. B. Senff.

BID.

We are submitting three samples of paper and can give you the cover in five assorted colors. We will make 200 copies on any of the above papers for sixty-eight cents per page. Same size book and type. And together with this a competent man, lawyer if required, to assist the City Attorney in preparing index, ordinances, transcript of ordinances and reading proof for an extra charge of $7.50. See samples enclosed.

I

It will be seen that the Sentinel-Democrat is in error in saying the contract was let to the highest bidder. As a matter of fact our bid is four cents a page cheaper than its bid and thirty cents a page lower than Mr. Miller's bid.

In order to make a full explanation of the subject, so far as we are concerned, we will say that when the matter was first suggested to us, the City Attorney had under consideration a plan to have the Ordinances printed in a form materially different from that finally agreed upon. We then thought our bid would be in the neighborhood of ninety cents to print the book as first suggested and as that was no special secret, it is quite probable that some attaché of our office may have so informed the "gentleman of unquestioned integrity" mentioned by our contemporary. Later, we were furnished with written specifications, as were also Mr. Miller, the Gazette and the Sentinel-Democrat, we are informed. Upon those specifications all three of us made the bids published above.

The book will contain about fifty pages, for which we will receive sixty-eight cents a page or approximately $35.00. The offer to furnish a competent man to assist the City Attorney in revising index, etc., was made in obedience to the specifications and if the Committee hereafter concludes to do this, we informed the City Attorney when we were awarded the contract that either he or the Mayor could designate the man and the $7.50 incorporated in our bid will be paid to him. Of course the ordinary proof-reading usually required of a printer will be done by us, as will any other service we can render, without additional charge, the amount named merely being intended to pay for any assistance other than from our force the City Attorney may desire in revising old index, which is very incomplete. As to whether the committee does this or not is immaterial to us, since, as before said, all we will get out of this little job of work is in the neighborhood of $35.00 and the statement that when the bids were opened "There was consternation in the machine camp" is but an hallucination pure and simple. It was a matter of small concern to us, since our profit will be but a few dollars at most.

II

It is unnecessary for us to remind our taxpayers that they now have serving them a City administration of achievements—an administration composed of men who have a high sense of official responsibility and measure up to a high standard of general fitness. That they would do anything injurious to the people can only be asserted by the muckraker or demagogue and this splendid administration needs no defense at our hands.

III

And now, for the first time since the present management has had control of the ADVOCATE, we want to say a word or two of a purely personal nature. It is falsely asserted that this paper is "owned in part and completely controlled by the 'bosses'". It has also been whispered on the street by certain envious persons that various men own stock in the ADVOCATE PUBLISHING COMPANY, Incorporated. As a matter of fact it is owned as follows: J. W. Hedden, Jr., 52 shares; T. B. Arthur, (Mr. Hedden's brother-in-law), 3 shares; G. B. and E. W. Senff equally, 60 shares. No one else owns a penny's worth of stock in same.

We have managed the company for nearly two years and without meaning to boast, desire to say that its business has doubled. For making this possible, we are very grateful to our friends for their generous patronage and encouragement. Unlike some, it is not our desire to see competitors fail and if fortune smiles on them, as is asserted by the Sentinel-Democrat, it should be and is cause for us to rejoice. As before said, this is the first reply we have ever made to any unkind, untrue or uncalled for reference to us. Our files will show that nothing of that kind has ever appeared during our management, about any newspaper, remembering as we have and ever will Col. Breckinridge's admonition that a "newspaper should always be a gentleman." We might also add that our debts have always been paid one hundred cents on the dollar.

On the whole it is a case of "much-a-do" about nothing and so far as we are concerned, with an apology for the length of this article, the incident will not be dignified by further notice or discussion from us.

Big Fire at Midway.

The large grain elevator of Coger & Co., located between Greenbaum's distillery and the Louisville & Nashville passenger station, at Midway, containing about 25,000 bushels of wheat, and a stable in the rear of the elevator, the latter also owned by Coger & Co., were completely destroyed by fire, which originated from an unknown source, Monday night. The loss amounts to approximately $30,000, with $25,100 insurance. This is the second large fire Midway has had within the last few months.

REAL GIANT FROM CARDIFF

Former Circus Attraction Has Taken Out His Citizenship Papers.

When the attendants in the naturalization court in the Fairfield county court house looked up one afternoon and saw bending to come through the doorway the form of a man eight feet one inch tall all official dignity was thrown to the winds.

M. J. Flanagan, naturalization clerk, at once recognized the visitor as Capt. George Auger, the ex-circus giant, who is now living in retirement on a farm in Fairfield.

Captain Auger is a native of Cardiff, Wales. He was once a policeman in London, but his stature drew so many people about him that he couldn't handle the crowds he himself attracted, so he went into the circus business. Lately he had been appearing in a vaudeville production of "Jack the Giant Killer," but now he says he is done with the stage.

He served notice of becoming a citizen several years ago, got his first papers and filed the customary notice of 90 days for his final papers. —Bridgeport Dispatch.

HAS ANCIENT MUSKET.

Perhaps the oldest gun in the United States is that owned by Alex. King of Richmond, Va. Ninety-seven years ago this month King's grandfather purchased a flintlock musket, which at that time was the very latest model in small firearms. Today the piece is in working order and can be fired as accurately as it could when purchased. The gun was made in 1814, the same year it was purchased by the elder king.

Free Scholarship.

President Finley, of the Southern Railway Company, has announced that, as a means of supplementing the extensive work being done by the Southern Railway and the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific Railway, for the advancement of agriculture in the territory traversed by the lines of these companies, it has been decided to inaugurate a scholarship in the State Agricultural College of Kentucky.

Mr. Finley will take this matter up at once with the president of the agricultural college, asking him to permit the companies to pay for the scholarship and to select the young man to be benefited by it. The scholarship, which is to cover the full four-year course, is to be awarded in accordance with plans to be agreed upon between the president of the college and the railway companies and is to be given to a young man residing in a county traversed by the lines of these companies, and who would otherwise be financially unable to avail himself of an agricultural college training. As soon as arrangements have been definitely perfected, full details as to the scholarship to be awarded will be announced.

Missouri's Anthem.

Five hundred dollars was paid some months ago for a State song for Missouri. No music has been found that fits the poem, and nobody seems to want to sing it. In the meanwhile there had drifted down from the Ozarks a song that has caught the fancy of the Missourians and they are making it a feature of banquets and reunions. The mountaineer musicians have been humming it at country dances for years, and you can almost hear the tap of the fiddler's foot as he drones it along with "swinger-pardners," "gran-right-an-left." The first verse is:

Every time I come to town
The boys keep a-kickin' my dog aroun';
Makes no difference if he is a houn',
They gotta quit kickin' my dog aroun'.

The second, third, and fourth verses are the same as the first. The tempo is dogtroterino, and the singer is supposed to have a pack of hounds to howl on the first note. This Ozark anthem may not possess the qualities of "Maryland, My Maryland" as an expression of a commonwealth's pride, but it has attributes that make it popular in Missouri, and it may go further.

Modern Woodmen Rates to be Increased.

Chicago.—The head camp of the Modern Woodmen of America adopted the proposed readjustment plan, increasing the life insurance rates of the society and closed the adjourned regular meeting here Saturday. The measure was carried by 460 to 207.

The re-rating proposal was made by the head officers after notice from sixteen States that they had adopted a uniform fraternal insurance bill which had been drafted by State insurance experts at Mobile, Ala. This notice warned the society that certain requirements would be necessary before a continuation of business would be permitted.

The plan adopted, in force after one year, will increase rates of members under fifty-four years old by from 50 to 100 per cent. Members over fifty-four may not be assessed more than $3 each assessment for each one $1,000 and not more than twelve assessments and one special assessment may be made each year.

TEST OF REAL EDUCATION

Questions Which a University Professor Wishes His Pupils to Answer in the Affirmative.

A professor in the University of Chicago told his pupils that he should consider them educated when they could say yes to every one of the questions that he should put to them. Here are the questions:

Has education given you sympathy with all good causes and made you espouse them?

Has it made you a brother to the weak?

Have you learned how to make friends and keep them? Do you know what it is to be a friend yourself?

Can you look an honest man or a pure woman in the eye? Do you see anything to love in a little child? Will a lonely dog follow you in the street?

Can you be high-minded and happy in the meaner drudgeries of life? Do you think washing dishes and hoeing corn just as compatible with high thinking as piano-playing or golf?

Are you good for anything to yourself? Can you be happy alone? Can you look out on the world and see anything except dollars and cents?

Can you look into a mud puddle by the wayside and see a clear sky? Can you see anything in the puddle but mud? Can you look into the sky at night and see beyond the stars? Can your soul claim relationship with the Creator?—Kansas City Star.

MAKING HENS LAY.

M. Joubert, professor at the agricultural college at Fontainebleau, France, believes that he has discovered a new and simple method of making hens lay. He feeds them with wine in addition to their ordinary food. The professor has not allowed his discovery to be made known lightly. He has been experimenting with fowls of all kinds for several years, and finds the same result in every case. In each case he experimented for the four winter months with two sets of twelve fowls of the same breed, adding bread soaked in wine to the food of one of the two sets of twelve. After six separate trials, the wine-fed hens laid more eggs, in the proportion of twenty eggs a month or thereabouts, the professor reports.

RELIC OF "BOBBY" BURNS.

The trustees of Burns Cottage and Monument have purchased and placed in the museum at Burns Monument at Alloway the cairngorm brooch presented by the Dumfries Volunteers to Burns, and an old wooden snuff box, which it is believed belonged to the poet. These articles were given by Mrs. Burns to Miss Grace Haugh, who, with her parents, for many years resided in a house adjoining that occupied by Burns at his death. Miss Haugh gave these relics to her nephew, William Pearce, and they have now been acquired by the trustees from his daughter, Mrs. S. R. Hunter, Winnipeg, Canada.—London Globe.

The South is accepting the cotton boll-weevil as an unavoidable accompaniment of its agriculture in every locality where it gains a footing. The great problem now seems to be to get farmers generally to follow such cultivation of cotton and such diversification of crops as will reduce the injury from the pest to the minimum. With the introduction of such methods ahead of the probable weevil invasion of a locality, there is hope of thwarting the panic that usually has followed the first season's destructive work of the pest in fresh fields. Agriculture in the South does not face ruin from the weevil. Even cotton-production can be continued profitably in spite of the annual toll exacted by this insect. The Alabama experiment station advises that planters menaced by weevil should reduce their cotton acreage so that what remains may be given the best of cultivation, and the remaining land should be put into crops for human food and for feeding an increased amount of stock. It is advised that bankers, produce exchanges and farmers should organize to push the campaign for better cultivation and a variety of crops before these become imperative.

RESULTS TELL.

There Can Be No Doubt About the Results in Mt. Sterling.

Results tell the tale. No doubt is removed. The testimony of a Mt. Sterling citizen can be easily investigated. What better proof can be had?

Robert Sheridan, South Queen street, Mt. Sterling, Ky., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills off and on for two years and have found them to be a remedy that lives up to representations. I suffered greatly from attacks of lumbago, some of which were so severe that I could hardly get around. I had pains through my back and kidneys, at times extending into my shoulders. I was also annoyed by irregular passages of the kidney secretions and I think that the hard work on the railroad was responsible for my suffering. I was unable to find relief until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at F. C. Durson's drug store. They gave me prompt relief and I continued taking them until I was cured."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Criticism by Arrest.

The God-given right of the human race to disport itself insanely is not to be denied under any form of government. If man makes the angels weep, the angels do not interfere with his fantastic tricks. The line of solemn farce, the arrest of actors in Philadelphia for appearing in "The Playboy of the Western World" comes near to being, from an intelligent point of view, so preposterous as to be beyond the reach of adjectives. Text translations of Moliere will lead to imprisonment for their authors on French character. "Macbeth" is a libel not only against Scotland but against the goodness of mankind. Why should we allow our own American business men to be assaulted and the resisting power of our men impugned in "The Easiest Way," or our statesmen blackened in "The Boss," or social sincerity debased in "The Faun"? Let our degraded theaters, of which there are hundreds, go as at present, undisturbed, but let us punish the hanging serious portraiture the foibles of our species.

"Had dyspepsia or indigestion years. No appetite, and what I did eat distressed me terribly. Dr. Rock Blood Bitters cured me." J. H. Walker, Sunbury, Ohio.

LET US SMILE.

The thing that goes the farthest toward making life worth while, that costs the least and does the most, is just a pleasant smile; the smile that bubbles from a heart that loves its fellow men will drive away the clouds of gloom, and coax the sun again; it's full of worth and gladness, too, with meek kindness blended—It's worth a million dollars, and doesn't cost a cent.

Continued. "You'll be a man like me one of these days," said the patronizing sportsman to a lad who was throwing his hat into the same stream. "Yes, sir," he answered, "I s'pose I will some day, but I'll have to wait a while and catch a few fish."

Very Serious

It is a very serious matter to ask for one medicine and have the wrong one given you. For this reason we urge you in buying to be careful to get the genuine—

THE FORD'S BLACK-DRAGT Liver Medicine

The reputation of this old, reliable medicine, for constipation, indigestion and liver trouble, is firmly established. It does not irritate other medicines. It is better than others, or it would not be the favorite liver powder, with a larger sale than all others combined.

New French Teacher at Wellesley Used English When Her Finger Was Pinched.

In some recent reminiscences of the earlier and simpler days at Wellesley, when Mr. Durant was yet living, and showing an eager and constant interest in the 300 lively girls of his college family, Prof. Katherine Lee Bates tells a pleasant anecdote of the arrival of a new French professor, whose first appearance was at the dinner table.

She had been heralded for weeks before by Mr. Durant's joyous proclamation of her high and lovely qualities, her Huguenot descent, her heroic type of piety. All eyes were straining eagerly toward the doorway, where, beside the gracious presence of Miss Howard, appeared a tall, lithe figure, with a dark, alert, laughing face.

The impatient warders closed the doors a shade too soon, and the stranger's little finger was caught and pinched. Then upon our intent stillness broke the cry, "O gosh! O gosh!" as, with all the charm of French vivacity, the smarting finger was shaken high in the air.

Our ideas of Huguenot austerity brightened from that moment.

Mademoiselle's French and the German of a more brilliant acquisition, Prof. Carla Wenckebach, proved as admirable as their English was occasionally surprising.

One of the innumerable queer phrases attributed to Professor Wenckebach related also to a pinched finger—not her own, but that of a student. It had been crushed by a falling window. The professor wished to tell how severely the finger had been hurt.

"The poor child!" she explained, compassionately. "Her window dropped upon her hand and jellied her finger to a jam!"—Youth's Companion.

FIXTURE NOT A FAD.

MODERN "HELOTS."

In sounding again a note of warning against the reckless dissipation of the coal-supplies of the British Isles, Sir William Ramsay makes an interesting comparison to show that, thanks to its coal, the people of England are, family for family, four times better off than those of Athens in its palmy days. Each Athenian family had, on the average, five helots, or slaves, to do its bidding. Now the "man-power" of the coal annually consumed in Great Britain amounts to 174,000,000, and dividing this by 2,000,000, the number of families inhabiting the country, we see that each of those families has working for it the equivalent of nearly 20 helots.—Youth's Companion.

QUEEN'S GOOD WORK.

Queen Helene of Italy has been called the babies' queen, because she is so devoted to her children. She is very much interested in all that pertains to the welfare of children, and helps establish hospitals for them, being the patroness of many that are for the aid of children only. She also helps the older girls, establishing schools for lacemaking and otherwise striving to make them self supporting.

REMARKABLE LACK.

"No gloves! That is most extraordinary!" "Well, ma'am, we get out of gloves occasionally just like other things." "But, man alive, gloves by their very nature should be things always on hand."

WHAT STARTED THE CONFLICT

Gen. Fred Grant's Story Told to Illustrate the Uselessness of Arbitration.

Gen. F. D. Grant, apropos of the uselessness of arbitration as exemplified in the case of the Turko-Italian war, said the other day in New York:

"It reminds me of a story. According to this story, a war was going on, and one day, the papers being full of the grim details of a bloody battle, a woman said to her husband:

"This slaughter is shocking. It's fiendish. Can nothing be done to stop it?"

"I'm afraid not," her husband answered.

"Why don't both sides come together and arbitrate?" she cried.

"They did," said he. "They did, way back in June. That's how the god-durned thing started."

ROSEN'S TRIBUTE TO PRESS

Former Russian Ambassador Says He Hasn't Been Misquoted by Reporters in 35 Years.

When Baron Rosen, the retiring Russian ambassador, took passage at New York in the Muretania on his return trip to St. Petersburg, where he is to be minister of foreign affairs, a reporter sought to procure from him his opinions on current events. Baron Rosen naturally had nothing to say under this head, but what he did have to say is worth noting:

"I have spent 35 years in this country, and in all that time I have never been misquoted by a newspaper man. I am, therefore, certain that none of you will misquote me now incorrectly, when I say that I cannot speak on any public subject, for I am still true to my training as a diplomat."—Exchange.

AN $8 CRY.

"My wife had a three-minute cry the other day that cost $8," said the man, "but she says she got her money's worth, and I guess she did. It was her birthday. She had not seen her mother for two years, and in a generous spirit befitting the day I had arranged that she and the old lady should have a little chat over the long distance telephone. It was a dead secret. I had made all the plans on my own initiative, and the call came to her as a complete surprise. I answered it myself.

"Belle," said I, "what do you think? Your mother wants to talk to you."

"She nearly fainted. 'Oh, mother,' she shouted into the receiver, and then began to cry. With the exception of occasional repetitions of 'Oh, mother,' that was all she did for three minutes. I had it from her afterward that her mother's vocabulary was equally limited. Personally I considered the interview a failure, but my wife insists that both she and her mother had one of the loveliest experiences of their lives."—New York Sun.

SUCH A HORRID JUDGE.

The woman jury had been out for hours.

The judge looked tired, the clerk yawned, the loungers slept.

The bailiff, after listening at the keyhole several times, shook his head with a discouraged air.

And then, quite unexpectedly, the jury announced it was ready to report, and the 12 women filed in.

"Have you agreed upon a verdict?" the judge demanded.

The forelady nodded and smiled.

"We have agreed upon 12 verdicts, your honor," she told him in her stately voice.

"You are discharged!" roared the judge.

"Isn't it horrid!" said the women. —Cleveland Plain Dealer.

CLOSE CALCULATION.

"It seems to me," said a customer to his barber, "that you ought to lower your price for a shave in these hard times."

The barber shook his head sadly and said:

"Can't be done. Nowadays everybody wears such a long face that we have a great deal more surface to shave over!"—Life.

THEIR NATURE.

"Coal strikes ought not to be considered big news."

"Why not?"

"Because they are bound to be classed as miner sensations."

IN FULL CONTROL OF LEGISLATURE

Governor McCreary Pushing His Program Right Along.

STRONG POLITICAL ADVANTAGE

Not Only Does Majority Party Stand Committed to Certain Things, but It So Happens That the Most Important of These Measures Are the Very Ones to Which the Governor Has Lent the Weight of His Influence.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 6.—Not since the session of 1904, when Gov. Beckham was in complete control of the legislature and was able to put through anything he wanted, has a governor been so completely the master of the legislature situation as is Gov. James B. McCreary at the present session of the general assembly. He occupies the position for various reasons, some of them political, but his greatest strength lies in the fact that the Democratic party stands committed to certain things and those things are what the governor recommended for enactment into law.

That the governor and his friends are able to pass any bill on which they set their hearts, is generally conceded now that the county unit bill has been passed in both houses. It was conceded that the county unit bill would be the hardest knot to unravel, and if that bill could be passed with so much ease it is believed that the administration now will be able to get through every measure which is on the program. And it was not a simple program that the governor set out to perform. He laid out for himself a hard task when he recommended the passage of some of the measures which were in his message to the general assembly.

In spite of this, there was racing and chasing on last Wednesday when the senate seemed about to take up the bill providing for the election of prison commissioners by districts, rather than have them appointed by the governor. The administration's plan is to have the governor make the appointments and it is really the governor's pet measure. He is out after the scalp of Eli H. Brown, chairman of the commission and it looks like he may be able to get it. However, on this Wednesday, judging from the agitation displayed by the administration forces, the voters were in doubt on the prison bill. Senator Graham has a bill providing for the election of the prison commissioners. Without warning he asked that the bill be called from the hands of the committee and considered. Evidently the administration was not ready for a vote on the bill that day, for a filibuster was started and everybody grew excited. Another bill, the Eaton primary act, had been set as a special order for eleven o'clock that day and the administration forces began to talk so as to use up the time until the special order arrived. They succeeded.

But this has started speculation as to how the senators will line up. The bi-partisan board plan for the management of the prisons does not appeal very strongly to the Democrats, even some of those who are favorable to the administration bill, and it is going to take some work to line up enough voters in the senate to put through the plan of having two Democrats and two Republicans on the commission. Conflicting statements are made by the leaders on the two sides. The administration men say they will be able to pass the bi-partisan board bill whenever it comes to a test. They say that they have enough votes now, and are ready for the issue at any time. The other side say that no bi-partisan board bill will be passed; that the bill most likely to go through is a bill giving the governor the power to name three commissioners, without any restriction regarding party. This bill probably will be the one on which the friends of the present prison commission will agree.

The lobby of the Capitol hotel is the place where everything happens and where the informal caucuses are held by the members. It is where the "lobbyists" work, too, as they have been excluded from the floor of the two houses. Judge Robert L. Stout, of this judicial district was standing in the lobby the other day when a member asked him if a certain person had been seen there in the last few minutes. Judge Stout replied:

"I have not seen that particular person, but I believe he is the only man in Frankfort I have not seen here this afternoon. I am also confident that if I stayed here long enough, I could see him and everybody else, not only in Frankfort, but in the state."

Kentucky is going to have the nominees of both political parties, in state, county and city races, selected at primaries, the expenses to be born by the state, so that the poor man will have as good a chance as the rich man, so far as entrance fees are concerned. The old time convention is to be a thing of the past, and not another convention will be held in Kentucky, except to select delegates to the national conventions of both parties. Both houses of the legislature have passed the compulsory state primary bills, and it only remains now for the house and senate to agree on the bills. They are almost similar but are not identical, and one house must accept the bill offered by the other, before any bill can go to the governor. The new law will give the people a chance to select their officers, at a primary, but at the same time will permit any body to run for office, by simply asking that his name be put on the ballot. Primaries, as now held, in each political party, are costly affairs, and the entrance fee that has to be put up by each candidate is so much, usually, that only a man with money has a chance to enter. The fee in the race for United States senator, for instance, in the last Democratic primary was $2,500 for each of the two candidates. Under the new law a man will be able to run for senator, if he wants to, without having to put up anything.

Railroad representatives sprung a surprise on the railroad commission Wednesday night by appearing before the committees on railroads of the two houses and fighting the bill, drawn by Lawrence Finn, extending the power of the railroad commission. Mr. Finn has a letter from Col. Henry L. Stone, chief attorney for the L. & N. railroad, stating that he would not oppose the passage of the bill. He said that Mr. Finn was authorized to quote him to that effect in convention with members of the legislature. The L. & N. is not yet fighting the bill, so that anybody could take notice, but the other railroads are making a fight. The bill gives the railroad commission a great deal more power than the commission now has, and it was a surprise to everybody that the L. & N. had agreed not to fight the bill.

But all doubt about how the other railroads would stand was not at rest when the representatives of the railroads appeared before the committees and said that they were opposed to the passage of the bill. They did not do much good with the committee as that body decided to report the Finn bill with the recommendation of the committee, and the passage through the house and senate. The bill may have some rough sledding. It is predicted by Mr. Finn, who is chairman of the railroad commission, that if the railroads beat this bill, there will be a campaign next time members of the legislature are elected, with the railroads as the issue and the people will send a legislature to Frankfort that is committed to the passage of a drastic railroad law, giving the commission power to control. The commission really has no power as it now stands and can do but little to relieve the burdens of the shippers. The people think that the commission has much greater power than it has.

The most far-reaching bill that has been introduced in the legislature at the present session is one that has attracted but little attention. This bill regulates the liability of employers for accident to employees. It removes contributory negligence as a defense in civil action for damages. It also provides that assumption of risks can not be plead as a defense in such actions. The law applies not only to railroads, but also to all employers of labor and means that the bars would be thrown down for lawyers who make a practice of damage suits. It would mean that a man who was injured, even though by his own fault, could still maintain a suit for damages and the negligence that the plaintiff was guilty of, would count only in mitigation of damages. The bill was introduced by Representative Wesley V. Perry.

The most remarkable thing in Frankfort this winter is Gov. McCreary. He is working like a man of thirty instead of seventy-four and has not "turned a hair" since the session began. The governor was talking at the reception which he gave at the mansion Tuesday night and outlined his plan of living:

"I set my alarm clock for 6 o'clock every morning, and the man who makes my fire comes at that time. I do not get up as soon as I wake up, as I like to lie in bed and think for a while before arising. I get up at 6:30 o'clock every morning and eat breakfast about 8 and then I am ready to go to my office."

The governor has not been to bed until midnight any night since he took the oath of office as governor for the second time. He says when a man reaches his age, the man does not need as much sleep as a younger one if he sleeps well. Gov. McCreary is like a debutante about his receptions, and wants everybody in Kentucky to attend them. He is pleased when the crowd is large and sees to it that everybody has a good time. The receptions have been more and more popular and the last one was so crowded that one could hardly move, but everybody enjoyed the evening to the fullest, and nearly everybody stayed to the last minute.

The present session of the legislature is half over, and while some bills have been passed, really very little work has been done. Not a bill has been sent to the governor for his signature, although that is not remarkable considering the way previous legislatures have waited until the last minute to get into action. Still, this legislature has been held up as a working body. It has been working overtime introducing bills, and the "topper" is "plumb full" as one of the members put it. When they get into the stretch, however, and get in holding afternoon sessions, soon to be followed by night sessions, there will be plenty doing.

The only laugh that has been heard in the house came on Thursday, when a bill was introduced, by Mr. Robertson, of Louisville, defining the limit within which eggs could be kept in cold storage and requiring hotels and restaurants which serve cold storage eggs to announce this fact in flaming letters
